LARGE ENTRY LIST FOR ALLEN COUNTY FAIR NEXT WEEK

Departments Show Much
Prosperity and Best
Show Is Promised

WEDNESDAY C. OF C.

Race Program Will Be Entertaining and Many Horses Will Start

Next week the annual Allen County Fair will be held and unless all signs are wrong, the fair this year is going to be far and above any held in the past years.

Lima has been more or less slow to awaken to the value of a county fair. Then for many years rain cut the fair program to pieces and the combination of the two kept the fair from achieving its true purpose.

But Lima is awakening to the fact that the fair is a mighty good thing for both city and county residents and this year everyone is boasting for the b's event.

The Chamber of Commerce is behind the fair and will have Wednesday set apart for its own program, in addition to the regular fair schedule. The committee expects to put on a lot of stunts and make the day an enjoyable one, especially for the tired business man and manufacturer, who ought to become a boy again for a day, anyway.

Many Entries
The entries for all departments are surprisingly large and there will not be a department that will fail to come up to a high standard this year.

The dealers are showing unusual interest and every inch of space that could be allotted to them has been assigned.

The live stock departments will be full to the brim and never has the Allen County Fair had such a large entry in these sections of the fair.

Races Great, Too

Entries for the races do not close until late tonight, but enough have already come in to insure the success of this, the greatest feature of any fair program. The races start on Wednesday with a 2:20 pace, a 2:25 trot and a gentlemen's road race, limited to Allen and adjoining counties.

Thursday, always the big day of any fair, the races include the 2:15 pace, the 2:11 trot and a half-mile run and repeat. A 2:20 trot is also being added conditional on ten entries being received.

Friday, the closing day, will see a 2:15 trot, a 2:11 pace and another half-mile run and repeat.

DIES OF LONG ILLNESS.

Charles Sweeney, 30 years of age, died Friday at his home 759 Greenlawn avenue, following an illness of several months duration from complication of diseases. Besides the widow two small children are left to mourn his death. The deceased was a member of the Woodmen of the World members of which will act as pall bearers.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the late residence, and burial will be made in Shawnee cemetery south of Lima.

FATALLY INJURED BY FALL FROM SCHOOL WINDOW

While attempting to pull down a sash in a window of the Melbeth school house, Shawnee township, where she was washing windows preparatory to the opening of the school, Mrs. Lilly M. Keller, 58 years of age, lost her balance and fell from the window to the ground twelve feet below. Her back was broken and her skull fractured by the fall.

Mrs. Keller was alive when picked up, and she was rushed in the Eckert ambulance to the city hospital, but died as she was being taken from the ambulance to the operating room. She was removed to the Eckert mortuary pending funeral arrangements. The deceased lived on the Spencerville road several miles southwest of Lima.

Two sons, E. G. Keller, Lima and E. B. Keller, Toledo, and two daughters, Mrs. G. W. Zuber, Lima and Mrs. James Nelson, Toledo, survive her. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

SERGT DAWSON GETS PRISONER OUT OF INDIANA IN HASTE

Police Sergeant Dawson last night returned to Lima from Indianapolis, where he secured Basil Cochran, 25, of that city wanted here for stealing an automobile belonging to J. L. O'Connor, West McKibben street. It was arranged in police court this morning. After pleading not guilty he waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the grand jury under a $2,000 bond.

Sergeant Dawson was forced to hurry Cochran, as attorneys were planning to get a habeas corpus in an effort to get the man away from authorities. While these papers were being made out Indianapolis authorities rushed Dawson and his prisoner to the city limits and there an urban car was boarded.

According to Dawson, Cochran has a long police record in the Indiana city.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—The executive council of the Federated Railways Shipment, at the Chicago district, has called a national convention to be held here on September 22, it was announced today, to act on the new wage scale granted by President Wilson.

Steps will be taken at the convention to oust the Grand Lodge officials now at Washington in conference over wages with Director of Railroads Hines and other officials of the government, according to John D. Sanders and M. L. Hawver, who issued the call.

SUIT FOR DIVORCE

BUILDING PERMITS FOR AUGUST SHOW IMMENSE ACTIVITY

Construction Is Going on at a Rate Never Before Known

MOVEMENT GENERAL

Business Blocks, Garages and Residences Are Pushed to Limit

Real estate and building permits for the month of August issued at the office of Clerk James McNeer were the largest they have been for many months past, a total of $111,125 in permits having been issued. The largest of the permits was for $400,000 issued to the Co-operative Realty Company, for the purpose of building their handsome new hotel at the corner of High and Elm streets, work on which was started several weeks ago.

Building permits for the month of July only totaled $64,815, showing a difference of $46,310.

A permit was issued to the directors of the Model Milling Company for a $1,000 addition to their building, at the corner of Spring street and Central avenue.

Practically all of the important downtown business corners, or in the vicinity of the business section are either undergoing repairs or new buildings being constructed. On west North street at the corner of West street there is the new X-ray club being erected on one corner, and just opposite the Christ Church Episcopal is undergoing extensive repairs.

At the corner of High and Elizabeth streets a handsome new hotel is under construction, being built by the Co-operative Realty Co., at an approximate expenditure of $1,000,000. Work excavating the basement of the new hotel was commenced several weeks ago, and is practically completed.

On north Main street in the lot formerly occupied by Feldman and Company, the Citizens Building and Loan are erecting their splendid new building, the work on which was started some weeks ago, and has already progressed splendidly.

Just back of the Empire theatre on Main street, all of the small buildings and shops from Main street back to the alley have been torn away, preparatory to starting work on a new moving picture house, to be built by W. L. Russell and several other Lima business men. This theater will be one of the best equipped and most modern in the northwest corner part of the city.

On west Market street, just west of Trinity M. E. Church, the new 7-cent Theatre is rapidly nearing completion, all but the finishing touches having been put on, in anticipation of their formal opening on September 11th.

Farther west on Market street, at 551 a fine large garage is to be built by the Lima Motor Car Company, which is composed of a number of Lima business men. The site for the garage was purchased several months ago, it being the Dr. Haskins' home and work on excavating the basement will be started next Monday. The garage will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 before it is completed.

Dr. J. B. Pelling, west Market street, has started work on a handsome new residence at 730 west Market street, on the site formerly occupied by his other home, which has been moved to the rear of the lot. He expects to spend about $15,000 for the new home, which will be modern in every way.

Dr. S. J. and W. C. Derbyshire, under the firm of Derbyshire brothers took out three building permits to erect two houses on Fairport avenue at a cost of $5,000 a piece, one at the corner of Garfield and Fairport, and the other on Fairport avenue, while they will build the third house on Ewing avenue at a cost of $2,000.

A deal involving residential property on west Market street was the sale of the John Thomas' home northwest corner of Market and Metcalf street to E. E. Day. The consideration was not made public. Mr. Day and family will take possession of their new home in about a month, having recently disposed of their property at 723 west Market street.

EUROPE LOOKS TO AMERICA FOR COAL

Shipping Board Official
Says Germany Can't Mine
Fuel Promised Allies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—With the world facing a coal shortage, Germany will be unable to meet the demands of the peace treaty for the delivery of coal to the allied nations, according to testimony before the senate sub-committee investigating the coal situation.

All Europe is demanding coal of the United States, A. Y. Saint, head of the coal export division of the United States shipping board, told the sub-committee.

In response to a question from Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, Mr. Saint said the peace treaty would make Germany deliver 25,000,000 tons of coal this year, but he doubted whether this stipulation could be carried out.

Germany is suffering from a serious coal shortage, Mr. Saint said. He produced statistics showing world figures on the coal supply which revealed that for this year there is a world shortage of 62,164,000 tons of coal, and the shortage in Germany alone is 48,300,000 tons.

"Is there enough coal being exported to create a domestic shortage?" Senator Frelinghuysen asked.

"Not enough coal is going abroad now to insure the domestic consumer," Mr. Saint answered.

"Will such a situation arise?" Senator Frelinghuysen asked.

"That will depend upon the tonnage available," Mr. Saint answered. He declared that there are now 174 vessels operated by the shipping board which are allotted to the coal export trade.

"There have been many propositions made to turn the entire shipping board tonnage over to coal export," Mr. Saint said.

He declared England has failed to take care of the shortage of coal in Italy, although she had agreed to do this at the economic conference in Paris.

England has gone after South American trade at the expense of her agreement to take care of the Italian situation.

This leaves America as the only source upon which Italy can draw to replenish her coal supply to meet the existing shortage, the witness said. Efforts on the part of England to gain South American trade will not insure the United States, Mr. Saint stated, for England will not be back to normal production for many years.

The existing coal shortage in the United States is largely due to car shortage, S. Pemberton Hutchinson, president of the Westmoreland Coal Co., told the committee. He stated his company had already lost a production of 60,000 tons because of a car shortage.

A Chance to Live

(By Zoe Beckley)

AN OLD FRIEND.

"Well, I should be struck dead if kind of a boys' club over in First it ain't Annie Hargan!" said the avenue near Tenth. That's free, but voice with a syllable or two of I guess it wouldn't be much for a chuckle following.

Annie wheeled to look into the black eyes and florid face of her old friend, Rose Rothberg, incredibly grown up, incredibly opulent of figure, but with the same whole-some friendliness of manner that Annie like her years ago, when they were kids and Rosie vowed by the gods of her ancestors she would "keep a delicatessen and candy store" when she grew up, because "eating is something every one's gotta do."

Annie grabbed both her pudgy hands and pumped them up and down delightedly.

"And what are you doing down here?" cried Rose, whose name was Rothberg no longer, but Mrs. Max Gubin. "I heard you was married and lived uptown in a swell flat—what a grand boy you got, here, Annie—Oh, I could eat him, such a sugar-lump, hey—"

And Rosie, her breath given out with her long mixed sentence, took a fresh one and chirruped to Robbie, snapping her fat fingers and smiling down close to his puzzled little face.

Annie proud and pleased, tried to answer all the questions at once.

"I did live uptown, Rose, but—"

Annie hesitated to mention Robbie's loss of job, "well, things happened and—"

"Ach—trouble, we all got it!" cut in Rosie. "You should know the trouble we have! My Max for months in the hospital and the business smashed. Shuh!" And Rose wagged her head expressively.

"So your dream came out, too, did it, Rosie—the delicatessen shop?"

"Hub—yes, it came out—"

Mrs. Gubin raised both shoulders and both hands, palms outward, "but it didn't last. That's how dreams do. But," she paused, her head held on one side, eyebrows lifted, mouth drawn down at the corner, "we try again. Downtown this time. It's best. Stick with the people you know. Uptown, where we was, it's all show and no pay. Downtown the people pay quick! When my Max gets well, this is where we stick!"

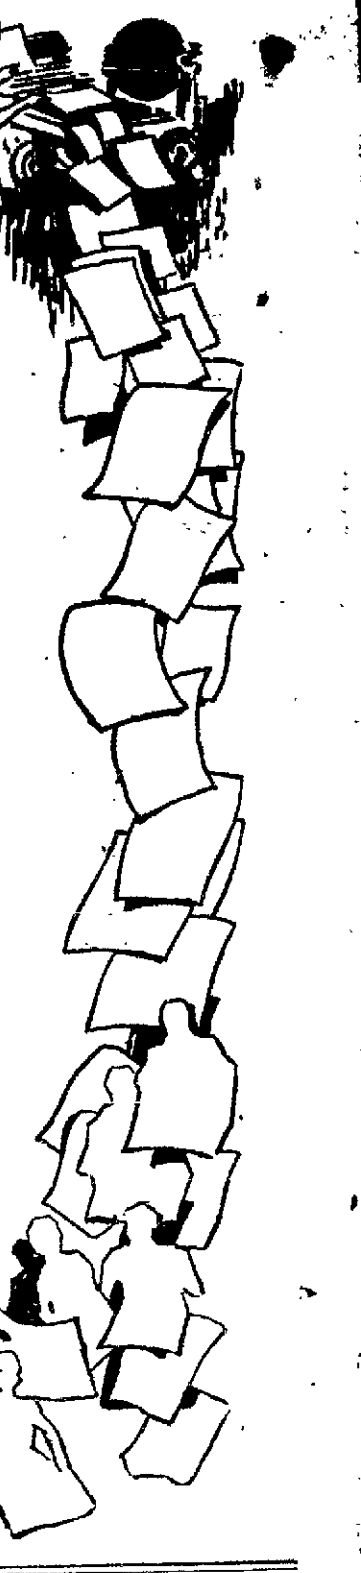

They exchanged sympathies and talked in a neighborly way of cats and families and the best shops to patronize and the best ways to keep the babies healthy, there being no parks nor playgrounds nor anything. And that reminded Annie of her errand.

"By the way, Rosie, is there a place around here where a man who likes athletic things can get a little recreation? Any gymnasium or anything?"

Rose considered; such things were not much in her line.

"There's the new baths," she offered. "You can go swimming there. Only in summer there's such a crowd waiting that they only leave you stay in the water fifteen minutes. Then you got to come out and let the next bunch go. It's all right in the spring, when it ain't so crowded. But in hot weather it's fierce. Oh—" after a pause, "I think there's some"

BLUE LICK FOLKS VISIT THEIR PASTOR

Friday evening thirty members and friends of the Blue Lick United Brethren Church came in their automobiles with well filled baskets to the home of their pastor, the Rev. G. W. Lilly. In due time the table was loaded with appetizing substantial and dainties, and all did ample justice to the abundant supper. The evening was spent only too quickly in friendly conversation and music.

Mr. Lilly has had a very harmonious and pleasant pastorate of five years with this congregation, which constitutes a part of High street charge, and this event speaks more than words, of the co-operation and unanimity of purpose between pastor and people.

OHIO SOILS NEED 25 TIMES
MORE LIME THAN IS APPLIED

Ohio needs five million tons of limestone annually to replace what is lost by soil acids, leaching and tile drainage, and cropping, according to soil specialists of the Ohio State University. Thus far less than 200,000 tons have ever been used on Ohio soils in one year. Drainage removes from 260 to 800 pounds per acre each year. Four tons of alfalfa removes 300 pounds; three tons of red clover, 230 pounds; two tons of soy beans, 180 pounds; two tons of alsike, 100 pounds; 75 bushels of corn and stover, 35 pounds; and two tons of timothy, 25 pounds.

While tile drainage removes limestone, the soil specialists do not suggest eliminating drainage, as its benefits are greater than the loss that it occasions. They say that both drainage and the application of limestone are necessary.

I stooped to pick up a piece of lumber and a pain caught me in my back. I felt sick and was helpless and couldn't go back to work for four weeks. During that time I could hardly lift my hands and it was almost impossible for me to turn over in bed. I couldn't find any position where I could rest and I suffered constantly. The kidney secretions passed frequently but were scanty, burning and contained sediment. A friend told me to use Vortkamp's Kidney Pills and I sent to Vortkamp's Drug Store for some. They relieved me so much I took two more boxes and my kidneys were regulated. The backache was cured and I felt like a different man. I could work in comfort for the first time in 12 years and I have felt fine ever since."

FRANCE TO UTILIZE ALL HER STREAMS

Has Plans for Developing Entire Water Power Resources

PARIS.—Nine million horse-power is total capacity of the natural waterfalls of France according to a complete census made by Monsieur Jules Cels, under secretary of public works. Of that total 750,000 horse-power was utilized before the war and about a half million has been put into operation since 1914.

The chamber of deputies is now discussing a bill regulating the concession of water power privileges which it is hoped, will facilitate the utilization of the remaining seven and three quarters million.

The advantage France may draw from full exploitation of this resource in power appears clearly when it is recalled that Germany has only 1,300,000 horse-power in hydraulic resources, that coal costs three times as much as it did before the war, and that the French water power corresponds to a total annual coal consumption of seventy-eight million tons—eighteen million tons more than France consumed annually before the war.

France requires twenty million tons of coal yearly in excess of her own production, at its maximum. At the present cost, the purchase of such a quantity means the payment abroad of a billion two hundred million francs annually, materially aggravating the situation of French exchange.

The programs of utilization of the unimproved water power comprises the manufacture of nitrate fertilizers so much needed to increase agricultural production in France.

AT THE ORPHEUM

ALL WEEK—Keith Vaudeville, Matinee and Night.

THE COMING WEEK in theatrical circles in Lima is going to be an important one. First, Thursday marks the opening of the fine new Regent theatre on west Market street, one of the finest motion picture houses in Northwestern Ohio. Then the same day, too, marks the opening of the legitimate season at the Faurot.

The Regent has been opened with a lavish expense of money, the building having been entirely remodeled, in fact has two outside walls remain of the original building, hence it may be spoken of as a new theatre, for it is. The furnishings, the lobby, the equipment, everything is of the highest class and when Lima picture fans step into the new theatre next Thursday they will be given a happy surprise.

The management of the new house expects to play the highest class screen attractions, and bookings have been going on for weeks. There is plenty of room for the new theatre, in fact managers of the other houses have had only good words to say of the newcomer. The growth of Lima has been so rapid, and war restrictions held back theatre building so closely, that the city is behind in its line-up of amusement houses.

The Regent springs a new eastern idea, in that a tea room is to be conducted along with the theatre. "Afternoon tea" is the big thing in the cities just now, being doubly popular since the prohibition law put the kibosh on drinking something stronger than the article that made it possible for Tom Lipton to build cup challengers.

The opening of the legitimate season at the Faurot comes as welcome news, for despite the popularity of the pictures a whole lot of us will never get weaned away from the real thing.

Manager Cunningham spent over a month in the big town arranging his bookings and he secured a line-up that would make any manager in a city of the size of Lima open his eyes. The actors' strike will no doubt be settled now in a few days and the road companies will not be held back.

Certainly the outlook for the coming season could not be brighter. Two productions are booked for the opening week at the Faurot and they will play to packed houses.

"The Dawn of a Tomorrow"

In the role of the vain of the London slams in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," a new edition of the great dramatic success by Frances Hodgson Burnett at the Faurot today, in a part of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford is irresistible. is portrayed by Mr. Roberts with infinite artistry.

Jack Holt, who was "Cash Hawkins" in "The Squaw Man," plays the heavy role of Lord Rae, the scapegrace son of a noble family. The part is a despicable one and it is a tribute to an actor's genius that he is able to interpret it in such convincing fashion as Jack Holt has done.

Fritzi Brunette, a well known screen actress, depicts the adventures, Anna Lee, and does it with great art and a verisimilitude that is rare even in these days of finished acting. The difficult character becomes real and convincing in Miss Brunette's hands. This extraordinary attraction hardly needs any added features, but the management of the Faurot has provided the usual accompaniment of the Pathe News, Paramount Pictographs, Bray Cartoons and the Screen Monologue.

"VICKY VAN"

Carolyn Wells, author of "Vicky Van," the new Paramount picture which comes to the Faurot next Tuesday and Wednesday with beautiful Ethel Clayton as star, is one of the most devoted readers of mystery fiction in the country. She has written upwards of a dozen detective stories herself.

"Vicky Van" is her latest and, many say her best book. Miss Wells has touched upon a strange life of a young wife and the death of her brutal but wealthy husband. The plot grows with every foot of film but all is cleared away at the end and Romance claims its own.

Ethel Clayton has a wonderfully attractive role, and she is ably supported by a fine cast. Robert G. Vignola directed the picture which was adapted by Marion Fairfax. Emory Johnson plays opposite the star.

Added attractions on this program will include a fresh edition of the Pathe News and James Montgomery Flagg's satirical comedy, "Judge, How Could You?"

"THE GOOSE GIRL"

Among the best sellers a few years ago was Harold MacGrath's famous novel "The Goose Girl," and its sale throughout the country was enormous. The charm of the story, its dramatic interest and its beauties from a literary standpoint stamped Mr. MacGrath as one of the ablest writers of the day. This novel has been pictured by Paramount for Marguerite Clark, the dainty star, whose success in other photoplays has placed her in the first rank of screen luminaries in the country, and its new edition will be shown at the Faurot next Friday.

The excellence of the story as a literary production, the beauty of the photoplay and the fame of Miss Clark, make this picture a remarkable one from every standpoint. "The Goose Girl" will be accompanied by Burton Holmes Travel, the Topical Digest and Cartoon comedies.

FAUROT—"WATCH YOUR STEP"

There is not a dull moment in this Irving Berlin's international, syncopated musical success, "Watch Your Step," which will come to the Faurot on Thursday night, Sept. 11, as the formal opening of the season.

"Watch Your Step" is made up almost entirely of music, dancing and girls—24 of the most beautiful young women that have ever left New York with a traveling musical organization. The costumes are the very latest expressions in the world of fashions and were designed by the celebrated Helen Dryden, the artist who designs all the covers for "rocks." The scenes are also admirably designed to enhance the brilliancy of the many changes of costumes, and is an entirely new production built for this tour. It is not a "number two" show, there being only this one company of "Watch Your Step" entourage.

It is a dancing show as the title implies. The story begins in a lawyer's office where dancing is found to be the feature of the day's work and participated in freely by all the people belonging thereto and the visitors within the gates. The stenographers dance with their fingers and their toes, the clients and the lawyers of the firm dance a bit before and after taking evidence or reading a will. After getting used to the idea it seems perfectly all right to have everything going around and trotting across, and the songs and arguments, promenades and poses, all lead up to or immediately follow a moment's "hesitation" or "one-step" to the right or to the left.

Prominent among the principals are, Helen Delany, Charles Orr, Marguerite La Pierre, Clay Crouch, Etta Hager, Charles Dell, Lillian La Pierre, George Robinson and Harry Ormand.

ORPHEUM

The Orpheum is presenting now 3 times daily at 2:30, 7:30 and 9 vaudeville at its best. Tonight and tomorrow the Kitamura Bros., those wonderful Japanese gymnasts, and four other big high class acts will appear for the last times as an added feature for Sunday, Bessie Barriscale, in her latest and conceded her best efforts will be seen in "The Woman Michael Married" shown in addition to the big vaudeville program.

Salom asked for the head of John the Baptist as a reward for pleasing King Herod with the dance of the seven veils.

Mira Sacky, the beautiful mermaid in "The Woman Michael Married," who had saved the life of the boy of the rich young society bachelor, exacted from the grateful man that he marry her—a professional diver and swimmer—just marry her and give her his name and money, that's all!

This is the basis of the plot of Bessie Barriscale's latest Robertson-Cole production distributed by Exhibitors Mutual, in which Miss Barriscale is cast as Mira Sacky, a professional diving swimmer whose ambition is to get enough money to enable her to cultivate her voice.

Mira had enough worldly wisdom not to accept money from a man, but instead placed the man in a position where she had a legitimate claim on him. The dubious romance so daring and originally begun, led to some bewildering situations that make for an exceptional drama of sustained interest.

Miss Barriscale wears some gorgeous gowns of the ultra-ultra type, and looks even more stunning in a one-piece bathing-suit that doesn't conceal any of her physical charms, and fits "like the paper on the wall."

Henry Kolker directed the production, which is lavish in its sets and notable for exquisite photography.

"The Stronger Vow" Geraldine Farrar's latest picture which will be presented at the Lyric Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, permits the famous operatic star to don the mantilla of her "Carmen" and a personality of very similar design.

This production not only gives Farrar an opportunity for a strong characterization but presents a composition of optical beauty. The picturesque locale being that of Spain

XXVI—I MEET THE CALLOWAYS

Ten years had wrought little change in Bob Calloway. The man stood smiling before me and held my hand in his warm clasp might have been the adored hero of my youth but for a shade more firmness of chin and glance, a more insistent muscular strength. The years had whitened his temples slightly and his eyes seemed darker and more brilliant than ever by contrast. "So this young beauty is little Nell Winston grown up! Why child you were gingham frocks and a pigtail the last time I saw you?" "You like the change?" I flashed him a provocative glance. "Immense. I'd never have known you if Mrs. Lloyd had not said, 'Here comes our newest and most talked-about bride - perhaps you recall Nell Winston.' Let me have all the dances you can spare. I've ten years to talk over with you."

"My card is full," I laughed, "but I shall escape to the roof garden after the tenth - if you care to come." "Watch me!" he declared, "Oh, by the way, I want Mrs. Calloway to meet you. May I take you to the Lloyd's box?" I ignored Dick Frazier's warning frown and took Maj. Calloway's arm. I found Bob Calloway's wife just what I had expected, a sweet, fluffy little thing with a round girlish face and wide blue eyes. She looked too young to be the mother of two children, and her brain had kept pace with her physical development. She talked incessantly, but always pertinent, and unless you could discover a mutual friend, her interest in the conversation immediately waned. She was one of those women whom every acquaintance, event, city or play reminded of something else. Present events had no significance. She had the Southerner's reverence for family, and whenever a town was mentioned she promptly asked, "Oh, do you know the Alvord Jennings? They are the very nicest people there," her tone implying that you must be socially impossible yourself if you had never chanced to meet them.

At first glance I saw that she did not like me—she was too lacking in subtlety to conceal her feelings. I wondered what Bob Calloway could have told her about me and felt a secret joy. The jealousy of wives is a flirt's most sincere flattery. When I went back to Captain Frazier he had cast aside every evidence of displeasure and was flirting audaciously with a flapper. Indifference is a game fascinating that two can play, but I had no mind to see his interest transferred elsewhere, so I set about to be extraordinarily agreeable, and we slipped away to the roof garden which opened off the twelfth floor of the Argonne, before we decently should. I wanted him to make some mention of Maj. Calloway, but he, anticipating my desire and being as adept as I, introduced piquancy into the game, talked about the moon. "It's a corking night for the river," he said, "We'll make a get-away about eleven and escape the supper mob here. If you met me at the motor entrance, it will save possible embarrassment for you."

"How deliciously clandestine! I feel like a parlor maid walking out with her favorite policeman. Isn't it heavenly to be young on a night like this?" I added looking up at the moon that cast the glamour of enchantment over the silent buildings below us. "And beautiful and adored," Captain Frazier added softly. "Why do you say that—tonight—and never before?" "Because I'm mad about you!" he whispered bending so close to me that his lips almost brushed my cheek, "because I—"

"I beg your pardon, Mrs. Tindall, but I think you've forgotten my dance." John Manning stepped around the corner of the shrubbery that protected our retreat. (Copyright, 1919, By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.) Tomorrow—A New-Old Captive

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 6.—Election of delegates of the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church to be held in Des Moines, Iowa, May 1920, was completed today by the West Ohio conference in session here.

These five additional ministerial delegates were chosen:

Dr. David F. Helms, Lima; Rev. Olive E. Smith, Elida; Dr. Warren J. Dunham, Dayton; Dr. Daniel McGuire, Cincinnati; and Rev. Valorous F. Bron, Milford.

Fifteen other delegates were elected yesterday including ten laymen. Anniversaries of the woman's foreign and home missionary societies were observed this afternoon.

FINDLAY, Sept. 6.—The West Ohio conference reached the high tide Friday and great throngs of people were wholly unable to get standing room in the First M. E. church, where the sessions are being held.

The interest is intense and some vital questions are being discussed and disposed of today.

Bishop Anderson stood up most of the time in presiding over the conference. A great deal of rapid fire work was done and hundreds of spectators watched the movements

SIMPLY GETTING ALONG FINE NOW

Citizen States That the New Root and Herb Remedy, Drecto, has Overcome Many Troubles.

Had Suffered From Indigestion, Gastritis, Constipation, Backache, Nervousness and Lazy Liver.

All the claims of what Drecto has done and will do are based on the very best evidence—the signed statements of scores of men and women, who tell how they have been restored to health and joy of living by its power. Sufferers not only from stomach trouble, but also those who have experienced the miseries of asthma, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney disorders, constipation, and blood ailments, have come forward to tell of their experience and deliverance.

"No person in Ohio has an excuse to suffer from their troubles, now that Drecto has been put on sale here, for I know from my own experience with it," said Mr. Henry McLaughlin, who resides at the Military Army Home, Dayton, Ohio.

"I took a bottle of it and it gave me quick relief from pains in my back, right over my kidneys. It also got my liver to acting, and put a stop to spots dancing before my eyes; gridy feeling, and taste in my mouth, and that drowsy, lazy no-account feeling and headaches. Last Sunday was the first day I have been free from headaches, in many weeks.

"I was also so nervous that my sleep was broken, and I'd get up in the morning more tired than when I went to bed. My bowels were badly constipated also, but Drecto has positively relieved all these ailments, and made me feel strong and full of vigor, so that I work all day without being tired out. I certainly recommend Drecto as being the best medicine I ever saw."

Drecto is made from the juices of 12 different herbs, roots, barks and berries, which act directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder and the blood, and tends to relieve constipation, headaches, rheumatism, catarrh, biliousness, dizzy spells, heart fluttering, gas on the stomach and other troubles.

Mr. Stout, the well known Drecto expert, has headquarters at Baldwin's Central Drug Store, to meet the local public and explain the merits of this great remedy. See him today.

of the greatest conference of the M. E. church.

Delegates to the general conference were elected and that was fraught with the liveliest interest. The election was made by ballot and alert tellers collected and counted the vote of the conference. The result of the ministerial conference vote was not announced until late, but the conference of the lay association, held in the First Presbyterian church, elected seven of their ten delegates to the general conference and then voted on the remaining three and recessed for luncheon.

It was a double-header conference today—ministerial and laymen. The lay conference decided, or rather ratified the action of the general conference of four years ago in admitting laymen to the membership of the annual conferences. The proposition or memorial, which is an amendment to the church law was offered in the report of the memorial committee at the lay conference and after much discussion was adopted unanimously. Under the law of the church such ratification must be made by counted vote and 255 laymen voted for it, not a single opposing vote being recorded.

Laymen Organization
The lay conference organized by the election of E. F. Layman, of Winton Place, Cincinnati, president. Mr. Layman is a civil engineer and a presiding officer of shining ability. One minute nominating speeches were allowed and he held the watch on the orators. "Name your candidate and sit down," he would call to some enthusiastic brother who was floundering in spread-eagle oratory in telling of the fitness of the candidate he was about to present.

The delegates elected to the general conference were John H. Clark, Marion; C. A. Collins, Toledo; H. E. Bradley, of Urbana; Ida M. Good, Sidney; Judge Kilitz, Toledo; E. I. Antram, of Van Wert and W. T. Palmer, Celina; E. E. Shipley, Cincinnati; E. R. Graham, Richmond and L. E. Justus, Lima.

The ministerial conference elected five delegates, out of ten, to the general conference. Rev. W. D. Cole, pastor of Trinity church, Lima, received the highest vote and is the ranking delegate. The others chosen Friday were:

Dr. W. A. Wiant and Dr. E. S. Weaver, Springfield; Dr. Cyrus M. Van Pelt, Delaware and Dr. Albert E. Smith president of the Ohio Northern University, Ada.

The business of the conference will be ended by Saturday evening and the pastoral appointments may be read Sunday evening or Monday morning.

$1,000 Necklace

Ice Cream Cones

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Two ice cream cones was the price which two Parisian bell boys received the other day for $1,000 pearl necklace, one of them had stolen from an American Red Cross worker here. The Red Cross girl, whose name is not made public, was a guest at the hotel where the two boys, Albert Marant and Jean Arnal, were employed.

Fearing that detectives were watching him Marant gave the loot to Arnal to sell. He took the necklace to the ice cream vendor who has a portable stand in Tuilleries Garden and demanded ten francs, but the vendor induced him to accept instead two ice cream cones as it was a holiday. Both bell boys and the ice cream man are in La Sante prison.

SEVERELY BURNED AS BOILER EXPLODES

DELPHOS, Sept. 6.—An explosion in which one man was seriously injured took place on the Dan Sherrick farm eight miles southeast of Delphos Thursday afternoon.

The crown sheet of a traction engine blew out and the engineer, Jacob Sherk, was severely burned from the chest down. It is thought that he will recover, but will be laid up for some time.

A definite statement as to whether the Ft. Wayne branch of the American Road Machinery company will be moved to Delphos may be expected within the next few days.

A letter has been received from E. E. Berry, general superintendent of the company, in reply to one written by the secretary of the Community club. In his letter Mr. Berry makes note of the fact that Delphos was unable to raise the $20,000 which had been asked but could offer $10,000 and the site for the plant.

There is some question of whether Delphos will have any candidates in the field for school board this fall. It is doubtful whether the nomination made as the municipal election will stand as only a portion of the electorate of the Delphos school district had an opportunity to vote at this time, a part of the district lying outside the city limits.

In that event nominations would have to be made by petition. According to the city solicitor, the time for filing petitions for municipal school board nominees does not expire until 20 days prior to the election, November 4. According to other authorities they must be filed 60 days in advance.

Hilary Patton, son of Bert Patton of Southoff street, underwent an operation at St. Rita's hospital in Lima Thursday, for relief from an infection of the bone of his left leg.

For some time the boy has suffered with a sore at the knee of his left leg which became constantly more painful and serious. In order to determine the cause of the sore an X-Ray picture was finally taken of the limb and it was found that the bone was affected almost to the hip.

PUTNAM COUNTY BUDGET OF NEWS

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.—Thieves

effected entrance to the Creamery, securing about 1100 pounds of butter. No clue.

Paul Corron, of Leipsic, arrived in New York this week, from overseas. Just before sailing, he with a party of friends were in an automobile wreck, and this young man received a fractured arm which will have to be cared for in a base hospital, before he can return home.

Prof. W. A. Amstutz, superintendent of Leipsic schools, is a 100 per cent Putnam county school teacher. He is under 40 years of age, but enthusiastic on the subject of his life work. Service to pupil, parent and teacher, is his rule. Is a bunch of cantation from start to finish. Had four years study in agricultural course. Has worked in a community that has built up a pure bred live stock industry. He sometimes calls successful breeders to answer questions asked by his pupils. His boys can win in a stock-judging contest. For the girls, his domestic science teacher calls in mothers and housewives to answer questions and give hints and helps to the pupils. While in a centralized school at Vaughnsville, a physician was called once a week to give suggestions on first aid and health. Newspaper men were asked to come and say a word on matters of interest and tell how the news of the world is distributed. The children are armed for service in the kitchen, the sick-room, the breeding stables, the fields and in the walks of life where general usefulness is an asset. He won a victory in a big contest at a county fair. He has held community meetings, at which both young and old were going to school to him. His school is looked upon as a workshop. He is a benefit to any community so fortunate as to secure his services.

TODAY—"Romola," by George Eliot.

Washington Irving.

MONDAY—"The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," by

GEORGE ELIOT

George Eliot was the pen-name of the famous English writer, Mary Ann (or Marian) Evans. She was born in 1819 at Arbury Farm in Warwickshire and died at Chelsea, December 2, 1880. Her father, Robert Evans, was the agent of Mr. Francis Newgate, and the first 21 years of the novelist's life were spent on the Arbury estate. At her mother's death while Miss Evans was still in her teens, she became her father's housekeeper, and pursued her studies away from school and classes. All through her youth she was somewhat subdued by a very strict religious training; and she was a great reader of religious and philosophical subjects, and in later years wrote of them also.

In 1841 the family moved to Coventry, and it was there that Miss Evans made the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bray, and Mr. Charles Hennell, who became her staunch friends. Both Mr. Bray and Mr. Hennell were men of literary tastes; the latter had, just before this time, published "An Enquiry Concerning the Origin of Christianity." Miss Evans' ideas and opinions were much affected by the line of thought this work contained. In 1851 she became the assistant editor of the Westminster Review. She made several notable contributions to the Review, and during the time of her connection with it, made the acquaintance of many distinguished authors of that period; among them, Herbert Spencer, Carlyle, Harriet Martineau, Francis Newman and George Henry Lewes. Her friendship with Mr. Lewes, led to a close relationship, which she regarded as a marriage, but which caused much criticism among her friends.

Miss Evans first attempted the writing of fiction in 1856, and published in Blackwood's magazine the first of the "Scenes of Clerical Life." Although she received much encouragement from private sources, notably Charles Dickens, the critics were rather non-committal. Then in 1859, Miss Evans wrote and published what in the judgment of many is her masterpiece, "Adam Bede." It has been said that in the character of Adam Bede she drew a portrait of her father; and certainly "Donna Maria," the heroine of the story, was one of her own favorite characters. There followed "The Mill on the Floss," "Silas Marner" and "Felix Holt." In the latter work she aired her views on the subject of Radicalism.

ROMOLA

By GEORGE ELIOT

(Condensation by Professor William Fenwick Harris)

"Romola, mad," said the blind if you will point them out," and lowered her hastily into the adjoining small room, where the walls were also covered with ranges of books in perfect order. "There they are," said Romola, pointing upward; "every book is just where it was when my father ceased to see them."

Tito stood by her without hastening to reach the books. They had never been in this room together before.

"I hope," she continued, turning her eyes full on Tito, with a look of grave confidence—"I hope he will not weary you; this work makes him so happy."

"And me too, Romola—if you only let me say, I love you—if you will only think me worth loving a little."

His speech was the softest murmur, and the dark beautiful face, nearer to hers than it had ever been before, was looking at her with beseeching tenderness.

"I do love you," murmured Romola; she looked at him with the same simple majesty as ever, but her voice had never in her life before sunk to that murmur. It seemed to them both that they were looking at each other a long while before her lips moved again; yet it was but a moment till she said, "I know now what it is to be happy."

The faces just met, and the dark curls mingled for an instant with the rippling gold. Quick as lightning after that, Tito set his foot on a projecting ledge of the bookshelves and reached down the needful volumes. They were both contented to be silent and separate, for that first blissful experience of mutual consciousness was the more exquisite for being undisturbed by immediate sensation.

It had all been as rapid as the irreversible waters, for even the eager and jealous Bardo had not become impatient.

When they told her father, he wanted time for reflection. "Be patient, my children; you are very young."

"No more could he said, and Romola's heart was perfectly satisfied. Not so Tito's. If the subtle mixture of good and evil prepares suffering for human truth and purity, there is also suffering prepared for the wrong-doer by the same mingled conditions. As Tito blessed Romola on their parting that evening the very strength of the thrill that moved his whole being at the sense that this woman, whose beauty it was hardly possible to think of anything but the necessary consequence of her noble nature, loved him with all the tenderness that spoke in her clear eyes, brought a strong reaction of regret that he had not kept himself free from that first deceit which had dragged him into the danger of being disgraced before her. There was a spring of bitterness mingled with that fountain of sweets.

George Eliot's magnificent study of character concerns itself with Florence at the time when Christopher Columbus was discovering America, when Savonarola was prior of Saint Mark's, and ruled the city by his moral energy and his fanaticisms, when his pious frenzies, his visions, and his predictions of heavenly wrath seemed to the majority of his fellow citizens as coming from a more than mortal source; when Charles the Eighth of France invaded Italy; when the plague brought dire dismay; when the city was distraught by the struggles of the austere devotees of Savonarola and the gay partisans of pleasure; when the mighty ones of the land were united against the poor distracted Florence; when Piero de' Medici was conspiring to regain the power once held by Lorenzo the Magnificent; when finally Florence turned against Savonarola, and he met his death in ignominy or martyrdom, as one viewed it as foe or partisan. Across the scene there flit the figures of Pico della Mirandola, of Fra Bartolommeo, of Domenico Ghirlandajo, of Cosimo di Piero, of Poliziano, of Bernardo del Nero, of Sirozzis and Tornabuoni, of Niccolò Machiavelli, of a "promising youth" named Michelangelo Buonarroti, and many others. All these make the setting for the lives of a woman and a man and the groping of their souls, the one upward and the other downward, as wonderfully drawn as ever human lives were portrayed by pen of man or woman.

Florence saw Tito Melema ever making his way upward from the day when he found himself adrift after shipwreck, and was carried to the market by the omnipresent Brattini, merchant and huckster, and introduced to breakfast and a kiss from pretty little Tessa, and passed under the deft hand of the wonder-working barber philosopher Nello. That shrewd craftsman with edged tools—razor or tongue—introduced him to the bright and powerful folk who frequented his shop as if it were a club, and brought him to the notice of the blind scholar Bardo, who needed just such a clever young student as Tito for a helper. From that his path was easy to the confidence of the great Latin secretary to the State, embassies to Rome, everything was his, even to the envy of Niccolò Machiavelli. The world saw only the dazzling success, there were a few who marked "the change that came from the final departure of moral youthfulness," who saw the perfidies and deceptions of the dextrous and facile trick, the baseness that smiles and triumphs; who knew how he had left to slavery the adoptive father who had rescued him and made him what he was, how he proved false to the memory of Romola's father, who set him on his way to triumph in Florence, how he betrayed his great patrons, how he deceived poor Tessa, that "sweet, pouting, innocent, round thing," how he threw away the great treasure of Romola's love, and how his only bitter thought was that a timely well devised falsehood might have saved him from every fatal consequence.

Over against the figure of the man she married stands Romola, "fair as the Florentine lily before it got quarrelsome and turned red," as the rhapsodic Nello described her. Her contempt of all injustice and meanness, the noble serenity with which she accepted, though not without inward struggle, all that life and duty brought her, the willing service she rendered her father, her husband, the poor, the sufferers in the plague, Tito's abandoned father, even Tessa, her rival to the title of wife, the mother of Tito's children, the majestic self-possession which at the slightest touch on the fibres of affection or pity, could become passionate with tenderness—all this justified her god-father, Bernardo del Nero in his exhortation to her father, "Remember, Bardo, thou hast a rare gem of thy own; take care no man gets it who is not likely to pay a worthy price. That pretty Greek has a little sleekness about him that seems marvellously fitted for slipping easily into any nest he fixes his eyes upon."

But he that smiles and triumphs does not always triumph to the end. He is sometimes found out. So it was with Tito. He had made the last preparation for departure to a larger field of action. Pursued in the night by a crowd of angry men, he barely had time to leap from a bridge into the Arno. A long swim in the darkness—in the tumult of his blood he could feel vaguely that he was safe and might land. But where? The current was having its way with him; he hardly knew where he was; exhaustion was bringing on the dreamy state that precedes unconsciousness.

But now there were eyes that discerned him—aged, strong for the distance. Baldassare—his father—looking up blankly from the search to which his poverty had led him, had seen a white object coming along the stream—could that be any fortunate chance for him? He looked and looked till the object gathered form; then he leaned forward with a start as he sat among the rank green stems, and his eyes seemed to be filled with a new light—yet he only watched—motionless. Something was being brought to him.

The next instant a man's body was cast violently on the grass two yards from him, and he started forward like a panther, clutching the velvet tunic as he fell forward on the body and flashed a look in the man's face.

Dead—was he dead? The eyes were rigid. But no, it could not be—justice had brought him. Men looked dead sometimes, and yet the life came back to them. Baldassare did not feel feeble in that moment. He knew just what he could do. He got his large fingers within the neck of the tunic and held them there, kneeling on one knee beside the body and watching the face. In his eyes there was only fierceness.

Rigid—rigid still. Those eyes with the half-fallen lids were locked against vengeance. Could it be that he was dead? Surely at the last the eyelids were quivering; the eyes were no longer rigid. There was a vibrating light in them—they opened wide.

"Ah, yes! You see me—you know me!"

Tito knew him; but he did not know whether it was life or death that had brought him into the presence of his injured father. It might be death—and death might mean this chill gloom with the face of the hideous past hanging over him forever.

But Baldassare's only dread was, lest the young limbs should escape him. He pressed his knuckles against the round throat and knelt upon the chest with all the force of his aged frame. Let death come now!

HELPS ANCESTOR'S SLAYER TO PARDON

Farmer Intercedes After Murderer Spends 32 Years In Prison

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 6.—After thirty-two years of prison life Joseph Smith will soon be released. A pardon has been obtained for him. Smith won his freedom through an incident that reads like a fiction story. For good behavior he was permitted to work on a farm near the Joliet penitentiary, where he was incarcerated. He helped harvest Frank Sprague's crops. When the work was done Sprague took Smith in to dinner.

While eating Sprague noticed a peculiar scar on Smith's left ear. From it he recognized in Smith the man who had killed his grandfather, Shubaul Swift, in Lake county, Smith if he were the murderer and thirty-two years ago. He asked Smith readily confessed but expressed his deepest sorrow for the crime.

Several weeks later Sprague met Smith on the public highway. Smith was one of a gang of prisoners engaged in repairing the road. He asked Sprague to assist him in securing his release. Sprague got in communication with the state division of pardons and paroles, who, after investigation, disclosed no objection to Smith's freedom. Presidents of Lake county who recalled the murder took the view Smith had fully atoned for his crime.

Smith was convicted in Lake county in 1857. He was 24 years old when he entered the prison under a life sentence. Today he is 56.

Prison records show the average life of a prisoner sentenced to the penitentiary for life is six years and seven months. Smith, therefore, has beaten the average approximately five times and has established a new record for continuous years spent in prison.

DAYTON AMERICANS WILL PERFORM HERE TOMORROW

Hikes Will Work For Them, and Wants to Bet Real Money He Will Defeat "Our Boys"

(By James F. Burke).

Twice defeated by Lima, the Dayton American aggregation will come back tomorrow in an endeavor to secure revenge upon the locals by giving them the worst drubbing of the season.

Tommy Hikes, former initial sacker for the local gang, who twirled for the Dayton team upon their last visit here, will work again tomorrow, and has notified Manager Holloran that he has $20 of perfectly good money which he will wager that the Gem City outfit will wallop "Our Boys."

Hikes pitched a splendid game against the locals on his last visit here, and came so blooming near to beating them that it left a bad taste in Holloran's mouth. When the locals went to bat in the ninth inning in the score was a tie. Costello secured a walk and started to second. Rousenzehn tried to peg him down, and threw wild. Costello came home on the throw.

That's the way the Daytonians were beaten.

Has Strengthened Team.
Manager Jordan, of the Americans, has notified Holloran that he has strengthened his team to a huge extent, and if the locals win the tomorrow's game, it will be because Pierce carries a rabbit's foot in his pocket. Just who the new man added to the line up are, the communication did not state.

Long Will Play.
Chick Long, local favorite short-fielder will be seen in action here again tomorrow. Wentz will probably be shifted to second, and Holloran will make an effort to get Williams on the initial sack. Spidty will act as receiver for the locals.

Every indication is that the contest tomorrow should prove just as exciting as the fans will want. The Dayton team have established a record for fast, hard and clean ball playing in this city, and this fact alone, will bring many bugs out to see them perform.

WHILE CHEERING FOR REDS, REMEMBER!

While cheering the success of the Reds, it might be appropriate to pause a minute and remember that—in 1908 the Giants, with only 22 games left to play, were leading the Cubs, who had 23 unplayed games, by six and a half contests and the Cubs at that stage of the race were forced to go east. Chicago represented the National league in the world series that year. However, the Cubs had an opportunity in 1908 the Giants do not have. They played a big series with the Giants at New York and took all the games.

The Giants have no big series left to play with the Reds this season. There are just two more games scheduled between the Reds and Giants, and even should New York win both, McGraw's club can make no such gain on Cincinnati as the Cubs made on New York back in 1908.

That also was the season when a replayed game, following the regular season, decided the pennant. The game was played because Fred Merkle failed to touch second in running out a hit that won one of the games in New York for the Giants.

Dempsey and France's Best Man Who
May Battle Abroad for $175,000 Purse

Jack Dempsey, and in circle Georges Carpentier.

According to an announcement made by Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, has received an offer from the manager of Georges Carpentier, the French champion, to meet Carpentier in a bout in England for a purse of $175,000. If Dempsey agrees to the arrangements, Kearns believes the bout will be staged at the National Sporting club in London. The largest purse ever offered before in the history of the ring was $127,500, for which Dempsey and Willard fought at Toledo on July Fourth. Willard received $100,000 and Dempsey $27,500.

With the Trotters

The harness horses will perform at race meetings and fairs the coming week at Sidney, Lima, Medina, Bowling Green, Newark, Lebanon, Paulding, Hilliard, Bucyrus, Painesville, Montpelier, in Ohio; Lafayette, Converse, South Bend, in Indiana; Nazareth and Dawson will be the principal Pennsylvania half-mile track points, while the Michigan Short Ship Circuit holds forth at Jackson. This and next weeks are the ones with the largest number of meetings during the season and after next week there will be a sharp falling off in the number of meetings held weekly.

The trotting gelding, Jerry 2:15 1/2, by Stately 2:11 1/2, is now the property of the owner-driver, W. W. Keener, of Morgantown, W. Va., who recently purchased him of Sam L. Pickering, of Pittsburgh. Mr. Keener for many seasons has found recognition by driving one or two horses, getting them ready himself and starting at a few of the higher-class half-mile track meetings. Jerry was bred by the late George Phillips, of Red Key, Ind., and has a lot of speed and manners.

The fast pacer, Hal Boy, 2:01, is back on the half-mile tracks and will likely find his way to some of the late Ohio meetings. He is now being raced on the New York half-milers and is winning there. Another old-timer, dating much farther back, is old Earl Jr. 2:01 1/2, who is racing again on the Canadian half-milers and if he is good enough the Canucks may come down this fall to try the old warrior against some of the half-mile track free-for-allers in the states. Earl Jr. is now racing for his twelfth season, which is pretty near record all his own.

Red Batter Fails to Hold Second Position and is Passed
By Thorpe—Cobb Still Leads American League.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—As the clubs of the American league swing into the final month of the pennant race, Ty Cobb is driving for the batting championship, which, with the exception of two seasons, has been in his possession for twelve years.

Unofficial averages release today show the celebrated Georgian hitting .371, twenty-one points ahead of Oscar Veach, his teammate, and closest batting rival. In 104 games, Cobb has whaled out 155 safe blows for a total of 210 bases. Thirty of Ty's hits went for two bases, while eleven were of the three-bagger variety and one home run. The averages include games of Wednesday.

Ruth Nears Record

"Babe" Ruth, the averages show, is within one home run of being the world's four-bagger record of twenty-five established by Buck Freeman. In addition to driving out twenty-four homers, Ruth tops the league in total base hitting. He has stretched 118 hits bagged in 11 games for a total of 240 bases. His home run record is topped off with twenty-six two base hits and a dozen triples.

George Sisler, the St. Louis star, continues to show the way to the base stealers with twenty-seven with Harry Hooper of Boston runner-up with twenty-five. Eddie Collins of Chicago is third with twenty-four. Chapman of Cleveland is the leading sacrifice hitter with forty-three.

Players Must Pay Income Tax

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Professional base ball players and umpires, no matter what their club affiliations may be, who participate in games played in New York state this year, will be subject to the provisions of New York's new income tax law. Comptroller Eugene M. Travis, ruled today. This means, it was explained, at the comptroller's office, that players and umpires of the National and International leagues and others similarly situated, whose residences and home teams are located in other states, will be required to pay an income tax on the money earned while they are playing in New York if this amounts to more than $1,000. Coincidentally, players and umpires of New York clubs will not be required to pay a tax on their salaries earned in games played outside the state.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 6.—An offer of $50,000 to Jack Dempsey to fight Willie Meehan 25 rounds in Reno some time after the first of the year was made yesterday by the Reno Athletic club in a telegram to Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager. Members of the club say Meehan is willing to fight. The offer made to him was not given out.

"Pop" Geers Pilots Molly Knight Across In Event For Three Year Olds

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 6.—The veteran driver "Pop" Geers, drove his star three-year-old trotter, Molly Knight to victory today in the stake for that age at Charter Oak Park, where the closing program of the Grand Circuit meeting here was raced. It was an easy victory for the Kentucky-owned filly and was the fourth straight time she has headed the summary in as many weeks. Aside from the colt race the program was rather tame and in spite of a fast track for the first time this week the time was comparatively slow.

In each of the two heats in the colt race Geers took Molly Knight out in front and won all the way. In the first heat the Laurel Hall colt, Brother Peter forced her to trot the final quarter in 29 1-2 seconds, and she only won by a neck. In the second Little Lee was the contender, but Molly Knight beat him handily in 2:08 3-4. Norman Dillon made his debut as a member of the Murphy stable, but the gelding was unsteady and finished out of the money.

Two of three Australian fighters who are booked up for eight-round bouts at the Armory A. A., of Jersey City, on next Thursday night, have been dropped from the program of Matchmaker John Jennings. They are Jimmy Hill the champion and H. Neville. Hill refused to fight Mel Coogan. The bouts for the show are as follows: Jimmy Hanlon, of Denver, vs. Mel Coogan; Eddie Fitzsimmons vs. Charley Pitts, of Australia and Willie Doyle vs. some good man.

Willie O'Laughlin, of South Bethlehem, Pa., is signed up for three more battles. On Sept. 16 he boxes Bryn Dorey at Youngstown, O.; Sept. 22 he will go against Jack Malone, of St. Paul at Tulsa, Okla., and on Sept. 29 he will exchange wallop with Gene Bresseau in a ten-round bout at Montreal. The cut over O'Laughlin's eye has healed up enough to allow him to start training again.

Phil Bernstein, manager of Augie Ratner, the crack Bronx middleweight, is authority for the statement that Mike O'Dowd, the champion middleweight, has run out of his proposed eight-round bout with Ratner, which was slated for the Armory A. A., of New Jersey on the night of Sept. 22. Bernstein says Ratner may box Jack Britton instead.

WATER WORKS MAY BE TIED UP BY STRIKE

EMPLOYEES MAY WALK OUT UNLESS DEMAND IS MET BY AUDITOR

Council Grants Wage Increase but State Department Holds it Up

LAW MAY BE INVALID

City Can Not Pay the Money Until Attorney General Makes a Ruling

Despite the fact that employees of the Lima water works were granted an increase in salary, there is a possibility of the men quitting work unless Attorney General Price rules that an emergency ordinance calling for an increase in salary is valid, and city officials grant them back pay from August 15.

At council meeting on August 1, city council voted an emergency ordinance calling for an increase in the salaries of the water works employees. The order and ordinance was presented to City Auditor Rupert instructing him to grant the increase immediately.

Validity Doubted

This is the first ordinance of its kind ever passed in the state of Ohio, officials say, and Rupert doubting its validity sought information concerning it. He communicated with Moses Blau, Municipal Supervisor, Board of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices. Blau referred the matter to the attorney general and notified Rupert not to act until an opinion is handed down.

In the meanwhile attacks of the auditor demanding their increase, Rupert notified them of Blau's instructions. They then stated that unless city officials give them back pay from August 15, when the opinion is handed down they will quit work, officials say.

Will Hurry Opinion

This morning Rupert called the attorney general's office over the telephone, but was told no information will be given until the opinion is printed. They did say, however, they will hurry the opinion.

POLITRY AS CHEAP AS OTHER HIGH GRADE MEAT

In relation to other high grade meats such as steaks, roasts, and chops, poultry at the present time is cheap, says F. S. Jacoby of the Ohio State University. And besides it is a good hot-weather meat to eat. It does not contain as much fat as some meats and the fat is more easily digested than other fats.

Since the greater part of the poultry crop is put on the market between September and New Years, Professor Jacoby says that where practical it is a paying investment for the city man to buy few cockles during the early fall, weighing from two to four pounds, and to fatten them in a small coop on a mixture of cornmeal, flour midlings, and enough sour milk to make a batter. Gains can be made at 10 cents a pound.

LIMA SCHOOLS TO HAVE ATTENDANCE LARGER THAN EVER

In New South High and More Elsewhere Will Be Crowded

NEW EQUIPMENT IN

Assignment of Teachers to Work to Be Made Saturday Afternoon

Once more has the time of September rolled around when the school bells get into action and little Willie and his sister prepare to be chased and devoured by the big fellow named "Study." A meeting of all of the school teachers in the city, including high school and grade teachers was called for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the office of Superintendent Collins, at which time the assignments for the coming term were read.

According to an estimate by Superintendent Collins made Saturday, in addition to the eighteen rooms added in various schools and the building of South High School, the indications are that the attendance this year will be from three to five hundred more than last year. The total enrollment on the opening day of school in 1918 was 5,135, about 1000 more than three years ago this time.

The six-six plan, six years of graded school and six years of high school, which was inaugurated in Lima last year, will be carried out this year, with the exception of the Whitner school where one seventh grade will be organized, upon the request of the parents of pupils living in the extreme southern end of the city, who find it inconvenient to go more than a mile to another school.

The additional high school equipment which came during the last school term and was stored away rather than be placed during the term, and interrupt the school work has been placed in Central high school, and the centralized Franklin school, so that Central high school is now as well equipped in regard to supplies, chemical desks and other science apparatus as is South High. Students attending either high school now have equal advantages in every way possible.

Two additional rooms have been taken from the Franklin school and transferred to the Fawcett building, so that now there will be pupils enrolled south of Spring street from the first to the sixth grade. These same grades will also be enrolled at Franklin school. Formerly two fifth and two sixth grades were maintained at Franklin building, and only from the first to the fourth in Fawcett school.

Owing to the high school teaching staff being incomplete at present the exact number of teachers to be employed this year is not definite, but there will be in the neighborhood of 207. All of the teachers appreciate very much the 20 percent increase in wages given voluntarily to them by the Lima board of education in addition to their regular salaries of last year.

The boundary lines in the city will be practically the same as last year, with the exception that where rooms are unnecessarily crowded, transfers to less crowded rooms will have to take place. All of the schools in the city, including graded and the two public high schools will formally open next Monday morning, at which time the schedule will be outlined. Sessions will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, but no school will be held for the remaining two days, giving the pupils their annual opportunity to attend the Allen county fair, and teachers to work out their schedules with their principals.

VAN WERT, Sept. 6.—Roy Wertz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wertz, aged 3, was almost instantly killed Friday morning about 8:30 when struck by an automobile driven by Paul and Erban Pritchard, on the Jennings road near the Dunathan farm.

The Wertz boy had gone to the mail box to get the morning mail and had started back across the road when struck. According to the story related by witnesses, a wagon was passing and the boy waited on this but as he started to step around it, the automobile, traveling toward the city, struck him, crushing his skull and inflicting other injuries. He died before he could be taken into his home.

STATE INSPECTORS TO VISIT EATING PLACES NEXT WEEK

Restaurants and Hotels Will Undergo a Rigid Investigation

RULES ARE STRICT

Sanitation Is Paramount With Fire Protection No Less Important

State inspectors are expected to visit Lima next week to investigate whether local restaurants and hotels are living up to the Sparks law which imposes new and more rigid sanitary and fire-protection conditions. Inspectors from both the state board of health and the fire marshal's office are expected here.

Recent investigations by the local health department have exposed deplorable conditions in some Lima hotels and restaurants. These results have been reported to the state officials and action may be taken against the offending proprietors under the Sparks law, officials say.

Under the Sparks law proprietors of hotels and restaurants must take out a license to conduct business. As the law has just become operative the making out of licenses has not yet been undertaken. Licenses will cost from $5 to $25 each, according to the size of the establishment.

One important requirement of the new law is that hotels must keep their rates posted in a conspicuous place in the hotel lobby. This will prevent raises in rates during conventions, as 20 days' notice must be given before new rates can be effected. It is expected to stop hotel profiteering in the state.

Health department officials have expressed great interest in the requirement that no person suffering with a venereal disease may be employed in any restaurant or hotel.

Sanitation Is Paramount

Restaurants and hotel dining rooms must be kept in a sanitary condition and all cooking utensils must be sterilized every day. The better class of eating places in Lima already have adopted these requirements but local health officials say that a number of the smaller places have not.

It is expected that the sight of flies feasting on frosted cakes and pies will be a less common one in Lima restaurants after health department inspectors impress upon proprietors that the Sparks law requires all foodstuffs on display to be inclosed in glass or screened. "Cooties" are tabooed in hotels and roominghouses and their presence endangers the proprietor to punishment under the law. All bedding must be aired daily. Top sheets must be at least 90 inches long.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Ellis E. Workman, 13, steam-fitter, and Stella C. Barker, 14, both of 810 Pineledge avenue. Sidney E. Smith, 27, millwright, 137 1-2 East Wayne street, and Cora B. Genuoe, 21, 633 North Jackson street.

Harry D. Mauer, 26, mechanic, 17, 519 East Vine street. Cary Lytle, 28, farmer Bainbridge, Ohio, and Ethel M. Shoemaker, 23, 1108 East High street.

Samuel A. D. Painter, 25, poultry yard employee, Bluffton and Armita M. Ballmeyer, 19, Lima.

CHICKENS DROP IN PRICE AT SATURDAY MARKET ON THE CURB

Eggs Go Up a Cent and Retailed at 44 Cents Per Dozen Today

RAPID SALE OF MEATS

Slab Bacon to Be Put on Sale at the Market House Monday Morning

Both the curb market and the market house where the sale of army meats is being conducted were crowded with buyers this morning, anxious to realize a saving on foodstuffs.

Several thousand pounds of meats were disposed of at greatly reduced prices. The greatest call was for bacon which was being disposed of in 12 pound tins. There are hundreds of pounds of slab bacon which will be put on sale Monday, the market master said.

Crowd Is Large

At an early hour this morning anxious purchasers appeared at the market house and until noon it was all the clerks could do to wait upon the people. While bacon was the best seller there were hundreds of pounds of corned beef hash and roast beef sold.

Curb Busy Too

A larger crowd than usual appeared on the curb market this morning. Practically the same prices prevailed this morning as heretofore. Cantaloupes, however, have dropped and may now be secured at 3 cents per pound. This will make the average cantaloupe cost on an average of 10 and 12 cents.

Chickens Drop

Chickens have dropped to 23 cents per pound, while eggs have advanced a penny, and may be secured at 44 cents per dozen.

Five hundred loaves of bread were placed on sale, but owing to the lateness of the hour at which they were placed many shoppers had completed their buying and left the curb. However, the entire supply was exhausted by noon.

Roy Doversock, special agent, who has been placed in charge of the curb market was on the job this morning, and stated he was told by Mrs. A. F. Hillery, of Shawnee Road, that she will, next Tuesday morning, bring in a goodly supply of pies, cookies and bread which will be placed on sale. These articles, he says, will be home baked, and a great demand for them is expected.

Comes 75 Miles

G. F. Dolventahl, a truck gardner of Grand Rapids, Ohio, who brings two truck loads of vegetables over 75 miles to the local market disposed of more than 1,100 pounds of cabbage this morning at 4 cents per pound. He stated next Tuesday he will bring in a large quantity of
